

Unit Question

How can you show that you are responsible?

Unit Scenario

You only have one television in your house. Your dad loves to watch news on television and he usually controls the television. Your mom loves to buy things from QVC and she watches that channel when she gets to control the television. You never get to pick the television program. You've tried to convince your parents that you should have a television in your room, but they say you are not responsible. How can you prove you are responsible enough to have a television in your own room?
